Freak Pipeline Mishap Cuts Off Water Service

Housewives washed their dishes later than usual, some baths were delayed and in general Circleville was a very dry city Thursday for about two hours.

The Ohio Water Service Co. turned off water in the city from about 5:30 to 7:30 p. m. to make some necessary repairs on the main line just west of the city.

Harry B. Denman, manager of the company, said the repairs were necessary due to a freak accident on the Crites farm. A farmer working in a field near the home of George Eitel on the Island road struck a main line pipe connection with a plow.

ICELAND REFUSES NAZIS APPROVAL FOR AIRBASE

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, March 24—A German request for permission to construct an Icelandic airbase was rejected today by the government, which announced it would grant no foreign airplanes the right to fly to Iceland or use this country as a connecting link for trans-Atlantic services.

In rejecting the German proposal, the government stated it did not wish to favor one nation over another. Germany's request was made in connection with plans to establish an aerial service between the Reich and the United States.

ARMY AIRPLANE FALLS IN FOG, KILLING PILOT

CHESAPEAKE BEACH, Md., March 24—Out of gasoline after being lost in a dense fog for hours, an army pursuit plane crashed near this shore resort today, killing its pilot, Lieut. Elton E. Holcombe, of Atlanta, Tex.

The 23-year-old flyer's observer, Priv. Frank Ridenour, 20, jumped to safety a few minutes before the plane spun to earth. After his parachute carried him to the ground, Ridenour quickly organized a search party, which found Holcombe's body a short time later.

Temperature To Remain High With Showers Predicted For Saturday

Circleville residents took off their coats, rolled up their sleeves and prepared Friday to enjoy a second day of delightful Spring weather.

At noon the mercury was up to 70 degrees and was expected to continue its climb in the afternoon. Thursday's highest recording was 77. During the night the lowest temperature was 49. The previous high temperature for the year was 68 degrees on March 1 and 6, Dr. H. R. Clarke, weather recorder, said.

The warm weather has brought on a surge of activity in both the city and rural districts. Housewives are taking advantage of the weather for their housecleaning. Farmers are plowing and many are planting peas and oats.

Possible showers for Saturday is the prediction of the state weather bureau.

SOLON DECLARES REPUBLICANS TO GET AID POSTS

COLUMBUS, March 24—Branding four dismissals from the Belmont county aid for the aged office as "false economy," Rep. John R. Crunelle (D-Belmont) charged today that Tom McCaw, chief of the division, intended to replace those fired with Republicans on April 1.

"McCaw informed me that the dismissals were an economy move, but all that can possibly be saved is about $250," Crunelle declared. Crunelle said that two clerks and two investigators were let out although the clerks had more experience than one who was retained.

"What the Belmont office needs is more investigators not fewer," Crunelle declared. "If Republicans are given the jobs next month it will mean two months or more before they can become accustomed to the work. That makes for inefficiency and is certainly false economy."

SOUTH CAROLINA EXECUTES SIX FOR ONE DEATH

COLUMBIA, S. C., March 24—In one of the greatest mass executions in the history of the state, six white men—all convicted of the same crime—went to their death in South Carolina's electric chair shortly after dawn today.

The men were convicted of fatally stabbing Prison Guard Captain J. Olin Sanders during an attempted prison break Dec. 12, 1937.

Victims of the mass execution were:

William H. Gentry, alias William B. Woods, 25, self-acknowledged leader of the attempted prison break.

George Wingard, 23, of Lexington, S. C., the "baby" of the group.

Herbert Moorman, 42, who said he lived in Detroit.

Young Educator To Serve As Chairman; Classed As Liberal

WASHINGTON, March 24—Robert M. Hutchins, youthful president of the University of Chicago, has been offered and has accepted the chairmanship of the Securities and Exchange Commission, made vacant through elevation of William O. Douglas to the Supreme Court.

Selection of Hutchins was revealed by unimpeachable sources in the educational circles of which the Chicago university head is a member.

Announcement of Hutchins' appointment to the commission will be withheld until after the senate confirms the nomination of Douglas to the high court.

Long a staunch advocate of liberalism in the field of education, Hutchins has been a frequent supporter of New Deal reform measures, particularly those affecting finance.

Administration liberals consider him the ideal choice to fill the S. E. C. vacancy. He saw eye-to-eye with Douglas on government regulation of Wall Street and other financial matters.

Although both are 40 years of age, Douglas was a protégé of Hutchins. While the latter was dean of the Yale university law school, he gave Douglas a position on the faculty.

When Hutchins left Yale to become president of Chicago university, he offered Douglas $20,000 a year to accompany him. At the time, he characterized Douglas as "the best law professor in the country."

Although Douglas refused the offer and subsequently joined the S. E. C. he frequently consulted Hutchins on legal problems arising from enforcement of the securities laws.

When the New York Stock Exchange was reorganized last year following the Whitney scandal, Douglas was instrumental in the selection of Hutchins as one of the public governors of the exchange.

Hutchins resigned this post several months ago accusing the exchange leadership of failing to carry out certain reforms demanded by the S. E. C. He criticized the exchange for refusing to take

Wyoming's 'Tarzan' Evades Capture Despite Great Manhunt in Wild Area

CODY, Wyo., March 24—The vast rugged expanse of the Bear Tooth mountain range in northwestern Wyoming became the hunting ground today for Earl Durand, 26-year-old "Tarzan" of the backwoods and crafty killer of four law officers in the last week, who eluded the vigilance of 100 heavily armed possemen yesterday.

As heavy pieces of artillery—howitzers and trench mortars—and a machinegun battery were being planted at the base of the mountain to blast out the boulder-guarded fortress from which Durand shot and killed two possemen Wednesday, sharp-shooting possemen spread fan-shaped north and south over the mountain range today.

PHILADELPHIA, March 24—Dissolution of the German-American Bund and deportation of its alien members was demanded today by Rep. Jennings Randolph (D) of West Virginia in his drive to "rid the land of non-believers in American principles."

"Germany may now establish air bases in Mexico," Rep. Randolph told a men's club here, "by which the Nazis can reach the U. S. through the back door." The legislator criticized the estimated 4,000,000 aliens in this country who, he said, "accept our jobs, our money and our freedom—everything except our citizenship."

Valencia Also To Fall In Rebel Hands In Short Time

ROME, March 24—Presaging speedy termination of the Spanish civil war, troops of Generalissimo Francisco Franco will enter Madrid tomorrow, according to a message received in Rome today from Burgos, Spain.

Receipt of this message, which stated the entry of the troops has been arranged in negotiations between Burgos and Madrid authorities, followed Italian newspaper dispatches from Burgos that negotiations were under way for surrender of both Madrid and Valencia to Franco's forces.

The reports said envoys of the Madrid defense council, which is headed by General Jose Miaja, arrived in Burgos by airplane to confer with Franco representatives on conditions for surrender of the two cities.

Envoys Busy

The reports stated five envoys of the Madrid junta were aboard the plane which went to Burgos and that two representatives of Franco's military information department were believed to have entered Madrid through the outlying University City district.

Madrid's representatives did not leave the Burgos airport, where they conferred with Franco's aides. It was stated they offered immediate conditional surrender of Madrid with total disarmament of General Miaja's forces and recognition of Generalissimo Franco as head of the Spanish state and chief of the armed forces.

The only condition, it was understood, was that authority be granted to certain members of the Madrid regime to seek refuge abroad, the Italian reports stated.

NEW YORK, March 24—The stock market continued upward today, adding a point or more to yesterday's technical rebound from the recent war-scare break.

Trading was only moderately active, but leaders moved up easily on initial sales.

Included in the list of stocks to rise at least a point were Douglas Aircraft, Chrysler, Bethlehem, Loew's, Case, International Nickel, Du Pont, Youngstown and Allied Chemical.

U. S. Steel, Consolidated Edison and General Electric each gained 1/4.

Pullman, Santa Fe, American Radiator and Owens-Illinois glass were among the few stocks to open behind minus signs.

WESTERN MINISTER SAYS AL CAPONE HAS RELIGION

LOS ANGELES, March 24—Al Capone has religion.

At least this was the contention today in Los Angeles of the Rev. Silas A. Thweatt, pastor of a San Pedro Baptist church, who conducted religious services at Terminal Island federal prison, where Capone is now incarcerated.

The former Chicago vice czar, Rev. Thweatt said, raised his hand when, at the conclusion of the sermon the minister asked if any of the prisoners felt the need of prayer.

"Then I asked: 'are any of you fellows here feeling the need of the Lord, and if so stand up before your fellow men,'" Rev. Thweatt added.

"Capone was the first to rise to his feet and he was followed by several others. We prayed again for the men and then sang a hymn for them. As prison rules forbid us from approaching more than 10 feet from the men, I could not talk with Capone about his spiritual needs."

Nazis Give Lithuania Long Lease On Free Harbor; Rumania In Pact

BERLIN, March 24—Chancellor Adolf Hitler prepared today to deal with the new Hungarian-Slovakian dispute, and indications were that he would move swiftly to halt fighting in the Reich's protectorate of Slovakia.

The Fuehrer laid his plans to deal with the problem as he returned to Berlin from Swinemunde, where he disembarked from the battleship Deutschland after an overnight voyage from Memel.

Diplomats pointed to the treaty signed by the Reich and Slovakia yesterday as evidence that Hitler would act. Under this pact, Germany would strengthen its frontier.

many assumed protection of Slovakia for 25 years.

But even as the pact was signed, Slovakian defenders were resisting Hungarian troops who crossed the border from Ruthenia and, according to reports from Pressburg (Bratislava), advanced some 20 miles from the eastern Slovak frontier.

Hitler returned to a Germany which, by diplomatic action and the acquisition of Memel from Lithuania, found itself even stronger than a week before.

Other Pacts Completed

In addition to the treaty with Slovakia, two other pacts, with Rumania and Lithuania, enhanced the power and economic dominance of the Reich.

The Rumanian treaty granted tremendous economic privileges to Germany, including an agreement to use German armaments for the Rumanian defense forces, and to exploit in partnership with Germany the rich Rumanian natural resources such as farm lands, lumber, mines and transportation facilities.

In return for the acquisition of Memel, the Berlin government granted Lithuania a non-aggression agreement and a 99-year lease on a free zone in Memel harbor.

POLAND HINTED AS READY FOR NEW PEACE PACT

LONDON, March 24 — Hopes that Poland may agree eventually to sign the proposed "stop Hitler" declaration increased slightly today as the Warsaw government showed signs of apprehension lest she find herself isolated from both the Rome-Berlin axis and the London-Paris entente.

Indications that Poland may be brought to the British point of view were forthcoming as President and Mme. Albert Lebrun brought their state visit to London to an end and departed for Paris shortly before 10 a. m.

The fact that Russia already has agreed to sign the declaration, which would line the signatories up in firm opposition to further German "aggression," also was believed to have exerted considerable influence upon Warsaw's attitude.

Emil F. Marx May Lose Place As Chief Of State's National Guard

COLONEL JACKSON HINTED

Auglaize Countian Leads Fight Against Measure Backed By Bricker

Ripper legislation to abolish the life tenure of the adjutant general of Ohio and his two assistants and permit each governor to make his own appointments to the positions passed the house of representatives Thursday by a vote of 91 to 38.

The legislation has special interest to Circleville and Pickaway county residents as Dr. Harry D. Jackson, Circleville physician, has been prominently mentioned for the adjutant general appointment. Dr. Jackson, a colonel, is commanding officer of the 112th Medical Regiment of the Ohio National Guard. The bill now goes before the senate.

Opposition to the life tenure measure came from a solid bloc of Democrats and three Republicans. Life tenure was voted two years ago during the Davey administration. The positions are filled by three Davey appointees. They are Adj. Gen. Emil F. Marx, St. Marys; Asst. Adj. Gen. Loucks B. Brown, Kenton; and Asst. Quartermaster Gen. John A. Blount, Hillsboro.

Siferd Leads Fight

Rep. Ralph Siferd, R. of Auglaize county, led the hour-long fight against the bill, introduced by Rep. William E. Fleckner, R. of Ottawa county. Siferd said a long tenure in the adjutant general's office was necessary to "keep the military arm of the state from political manipulation and domination."

"Are we going to legislate to suit one legislator?" Siferd declared. "Let's not leave this measure known as job snatchers." Fleckner had admitted that the bill was an issue in the last election campaign in Ottawa county and that he had promised if he were elected to "do my utmost to have Marx removed."

Rep. George W. Branscomb, R., Stark, claimed the members of the 92nd general assembly who passed the life tenure bill were deceived by a "sleeper put in the bill by the cunning former governor whose every action should be looked on with suspicion."

He charged that irregularities had been discovered in the adjutant-general's department and that the national guard "is definitely in politics."

Reps. Cloyd V. Acton and Ralph G. Marshall, Republicans of Preble and Muskingum counties, joined Siferd in voting against the measure.

EX-DEMOCRATIC LEADER SILENT IN TOMBS CELL

NEW YORK, March 24—Morosely uncommunicative, James J. Hines, the once powerful Tammany district leader, sat in his second tier cell in Tombs prison today awaiting the next step in his legal fight to escape a four to eight year prison term for selling political protection to the Dutch Schultz numbers ring.

With a pickpocket and a burglar for neighbors, Hines dutifully submitted to the usual prison routine. He ate sparingly of special food he was permitted to buy as a prisoner on appeal. He must remain in Tombs at least until Monday when Martin W. Littleton, his new lawyer, seeks a certificate of reasonable doubt, carrying with it release on bail, in supreme court.

bill over by a 91 to 38 vote. Siferd changed his no vote to yes with a view toward gaining reconsideration of the vote next week.

The senate made ready to vote on the parole ripper next Tuesday after the bill had been stalled in committee by opposition of lawyers to a section preventing them from appearing before the parole board until they obtained permission.

The bill will be amended, according to Rep. Henry H. Metcalf (R-Franklin) to allow appearance of lawyers before the board at any time.

Aimed primarily at the $6,000-a-year job of Mrs. Myrna Smith, secretary to former governor Davey, the measure had had rough going in committee. If passed, it would mean abolishment of the present four-member board, including Mrs. Smith.

The legislative committee studying an 18 months poor relief program closed hearings and arranged to confer with the governor either Wednesday or Thursday. Out of this conference was expected to come a bill which must be submitted to the house by April 1.

Resolution Delayed

A resolution introduced in the senate by Sen. Robert A. Pollock (R-Canton) asking that the Dies committee be requested to investigate un-American activities in Ohio was put over until Tuesday when Sen. Grant P. Ward (R-Columbus) attacked it as bringing "headline hunters into Ohio to investigate something which should be done by persons of known integrity."

Bills passed in the senate would: Create a publicity commission to publicize Ohio's natural resources and industries; simplify the procedure for merging domestic insurance companies; make it mandatory for foreign bond investment companies to file collateral with the division of insurance; and authorize subdivisions to issue notes in anticipation of collection of beer, admissions and public utilities excise taxes.

House bills passed would authorize Cuyahoga county commissioners to compensate Paul Tober, Cleveland, for the death of his wife when the Bird brothers escaped from jail; provide for special tax levies for municipal universities not to exceed forty-five hundredths of a mill.

FATE OF DINGLEDINE, SON IN HANDS OF STATE COURT

COLUMBUS, March 24 — The fate of Harry Dingleline and his son Henry, under death sentence in Ohio penitentiary for the slaying of a police officer, today was in the hands of the Ohio Supreme Court.

The court has taken under advisement a plea that the father and son, and an accomplice, Harry Chapman, be given a new trial. Defense attorneys contended that the trio should not have been tried jointly for the killing of Patrolman Martin Randolph at Crystal Lake Sept. 3, 1937.

GAS CO. MEN HONORED

Dan McClain, manager of the Gas Co., and Frank Marion, serviceman, received awards Thursday in recognition of four years of driving company cars without an accident. The awards were alarm clocks. Mr. Marion and Thomas Alkire went to Athens Thursday to attend a district service meeting.

SHERWOOD MAY FILE CHARGES CITING WOODARD

Capital Hints Of Action After Conference Of Two Men

APRIL 1 DATE IMPORTANT

30-Day Suspension Comes To End; "Fight To Last" Pledged

COLUMBUS, March 24—Filing of ouster charges against James C. Woodard, suspended warden of Ohio Penitentiary, appeared imminent today following a conference between Welfare Director Charles L. Sherwood and the deposed prison official.

Although both men declined to comment on the meeting in Sherwood's office, it was evident that the recently completed prison investigation was the topic of discussion. A similar meeting between the two preceded Woodard's temporary removal three weeks ago.

Unless ouster charges are filed with the Civil Service Commission by April 1, the idle penal head will be reinstated, since the law permits only a 30-day suspension for "disciplinary purposes."

Sherwood has hinted several times that the inquiry exposed "unbelievable" conditions at the penitentiary. Although the welfare chief has refused to discuss evidence, facts made public to date indicate that the probe uncovered proof of original charges of widespread bootlegging, dope smuggling and favoritism in the institution.

Despite this, however, Woodard has declared firmly on several occasions that he would not resign and would "fight to the last" any attempt to oust him. He has branded reports of irregularities at the prison as "exaggerated."

County Engineers Score Diversion of Tag Funds

Describing diversion of motor license fees, to provide for direct relief, as "killing the goose that laid the golden egg", the County Engineers' Association today called on the state legislature to find some other way to finance relief.

"Harmless enough on the face of it", the statement said, "the pending legislative proposal to divert that part of the highway fund that goes to counties, to enable them to match state relief money, dollar for dollar, is extremely vicious.

"Instead of improving conditions it will make them immeasurably worse, by cutting down funds for work relief and substituting the dole.

"Last year all counties profited by co-operating with the W.P.A. Expenditures for W.P.A. sponsor's contribution, derived from the county share of motor license fees, profited most counties in the ratio of ten to one, and the portion the W.P.A. provided went almost entirely for wages.

Come From Reserve
"Should our law-makers permit the use of the county share of the fund to match state allotments for direct relief, it will come directly out of the reserves we have used to buy W.P.A. materials. In fact, it will exhaust the funds in almost every county, and leave them with no money at all for a W.P.A. program.

"Allan Slade, of Columbus, county engineer of Franklin county, has indicated the extent of the loss to W.P.A. workers, and the loss to the county in highway improvements, that would follow enactment of the diversion proposal.

"In 1938, his figures show, Franklin county invested $250,000 in W.P.A. sponsorship. The W.P.A. spent $2,579,883 in wages. There was a total of nearly $3,000,000 spent in Franklin county.

"This program provided useful work on the county road system for approximately 4400 heads of families.

"Had the proposed diversion

been in effect last year, the $250,000 spent in Franklin county, would have been matched by an equal sum of state money, and the $500,000 would have gone with the wind. That is, after it had been spent there would have been nothing to show for it. And further than that, the half million would have been doled out at the rate of $20 a family, per month, whereas the average pay for family per month in the W.P.A. is $60.50. The $3,000,000 represented in income from W.P.A. would represent a serious loss in buying power that would be felt by all merchants, landlords and business men in Franklin County.

Kill Golden Goose
"For Franklin county and for every other county from which we have figures, enactment of the proposed diversion will be as fool hardy as killing the goose that laid the golden egg.

"This year Mr. Slade had planned to spend $140,000 on a W.P.A. highway program. If that amount is used as he intends, the W.P.A. will spend about $1,400,000 in wages. But if the legislature enacts a diversion bill, the W.P.A. workers who otherwise would collect $1,400,000 in wages, will be out of work, added to the relief roll, and adding to the relief problem.

"We believe that the legislators proposing such a measure have not been fully informed of its far reaching effects."

BOYS AND GIRLS MAY COMPETE IN PULLING TESTS

COLUMBUS, March 24 — Boys and girls, 18 years of age or under, will be afforded an opportunity to participate as drivers in a junior horse pulling contest to be offered as the feature attraction on the opening day of the Ohio State Fair, August 26, it was announced today by Win Kinnan, State Fair manager.

The contest will be conducted under auspices of The Ohio Horse Pulling Association, which, at its annual meeting held Tuesday night at Bellefontaine, voted to participate and announced 60 teams have already been entered to appear at the fair. Ray Hennessy, Secretary of the association, reported that 85 teams are expected to be entered by April 15 when the entries will be closed.

Cash prizes offered total $700 in the two divisions, heavy weight teams of 3,201 pounds or over, and lightweight teams under 3,201 pounds. Trophies will also be awarded to the runners-up.

COURT DISMISSES $2,500 SUIT FOR MISHAP INJURY

The $2,500 suit of Herbert A. Cummins, who resides along Route 23, against Nettle Bray, 274 N. Ohio avenue, Columbus, resulting from a traffic accident on July 10, 1937 was dismissed in Common Pleas court Thursday without record.

Cummins asked damages for injuries he sustained when a corn planter he was riding along Route 23, about two and a half miles north of South Bloomfield, was struck by an auto operated by the defendant. Mr. Cummins lives in Harrison township.

FALL FROM BRIDGE HURTS CURIOUS COLUMBUS CHILD

COLUMBUS, March 24 — Boyish curiosity that led him to play on an overhead railroad crossing resulted in a 12-foot fall that left five-year-old Ronald Elliott in critical condition in a hospital today with a possible skull fracture. According to police, the child had been playing in front of his home with a scooter. Older boys were believed to have urged him to climb to the height from which he later fell and struck his head on concrete pavement.

ers association sponsoring the statement are Leon Wolford, president, Fairfield county engineer at Lancaster; J. N. Jones, of Eaton, secretary, and Leon Porter of Cleveland, chief deputy county engineer of Cuyahoga county, chairman of the legislative committee.

been studied by studio architects. When it was completed, old-timers visiting the location declared that it brought back all sorts of memories of the good old days along the Mississippi.

Paramount's "Arkansas town" was complete even to the cows, horses and livestock in the back-

There are 2 main reasons why the SPEED QUEEN washes FASTER and CLEANER

1. The BOWL-SHAPED TUB

Rounded, bowl-shaped bottom eliminates corner "pockets" so that every drop of water is constantly at work. Employs "mixing bowl" principle for maximum water agitation.

2. DOUBLE WALLS

The Speed Queen has double walls which insulate the tub and keep the water piping hot through an entire washing. The last batch of clothes comes out as clean as the first. Outside wall also protects porcelain tub.

Only Speed Queen gives you the exclusive combination of a fast-washing BOWL-SHAPED TUB and DOUBLE WALLS to keep water hot. No other washer has ever been able to surpass the washing ability of this double-feature combination. There is no cleaner, faster washer than Speed Queen!

STATE AUDITOR REPORTS COUNTY RELIEF EXPENSE

COLUMBUS, March 24—Pickaway had 314 persons on its poor relief rolls as of March 1, State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson announced today.

The county's poor relief encumbrances, less administration costs, total $5,104. Addition of administration charges raises this total to $5,974 for February, Auditor Ferguson said.

The county showed a decrease of six poor relief cases over February, 1938, with an increase of $989 in its monthly encumbrances, inclusive of administrative costs. In addition, Pickaway county's poor relief rolls showed an increase of 40 cases in February over January, 1939.

Comparative statistics reveal that, in Ohio as a whole, the month of February had 105,662 persons on poor relief at a total expense of $1,881,040. Of this $277,000 was for administration. For the same month of 1938, there were 137,134 persons on poor relief costing $2,404,259, of which $288,000 was for administration.

SHERWOOD MAY FILE CHARGES CITING WOODARD

Capital Hints Of Action After Conference Of Two Men

APRIL 1 DATE IMPORTANT

30-Day Suspension Comes To End; "Fight To Last" Pledged

COLUMBUS, March 24—Filing of ouster charges against James C. Woodard, suspended warden of Ohio Penitentiary, appeared imminent today following a conference between Welfare Director Charles L. Sherwood and the deposed prison official.

Although both men declined to comment on the meeting in Sherwood's office, it was evident that the recently completed prison investigation was the topic of discussion. A similar meeting between the two preceded Woodard's temporary removal three weeks ago.

Unless ouster charges are filed with the Civil Service Commission by April 1, the idle penal head will be reinstated, since the law permits only a 30-day suspension for "disciplinary purposes."

Sherwood has hinted several times that the inquiry exposed "unbelievable" conditions at the penitentiary. Although the welfare chief has refused to discuss evidence, facts made public to date indicate that the probe uncovered proof of original charges of widespread bootlegging, dope smuggling and favoritism in the institution.

Despite this, however, Woodard has declared firmly on several occasions that he would not resign and would "fight to the last." He has branded reports of irregularities at the prison as "exaggerated."

U.S. TO ASSIST ANY NEIGHBOR FORCED TO WAR

Attack On Canada, Mexico Would Bring Immediate Move, Authority Says

DER FUEHRER IN ICELAND?

Report That Nazis Study Air Base Brings Fear To North America

By Robert Nixon
WASHINGTON, March 24—The United States would oppose with the full strength of its powerful modern air force, fleet and land army, any attempt by Germany, or any other foreign power, to invade the Western Hemisphere through Canada or Mexico.

This was the unequivocal assertion today of a high American national defense authority to this correspondent.

With the shadow of Nazi domination extended over Czechoslovakia and Memel this week by threat of overwhelming military force, the possibility that Chancellor Hitler might turn an ambitious eye across the Atlantic to attack Canada from the air was based by reports that Germany is seeking to establish a military air base in Iceland.

International News Service asked a high American military authority what position the United States would take in case of a foreign attack on, or invasion of, Canada, which is not embraced in the Monroe Doctrine as Canada is a British dominion. This was his point blank reply:

"An attack on Canada would be the same as a German invasion of Belgium. Just as France and England would have to fight, it would be necessary for the United States to go out and repel an invasion of Canada instantly for, like Belgium, Canada would be simply a pathway to the United States.

Safety Considered

Such an attack, he insisted, must for this country's national safety bring instant retaliation by the full defensive forces of the United States. This country considers that any attack on a neighbor of the United States would be an attack on the United States. An attack on Canada, or Mexico, or any of the countries of Central or South America or the West Indies would be regarded as being for the purpose of establishing land bases from which hostile air squadrons and a land army, transported from overseas, could launch a direct and strong attack on the United States.

This authority pointed out that President Roosevelt already has extended the Monroe Doctrine to include Canada, despite the fact that it is a British dominion. At Kingston, Ontario, last year the chief executive declared the United States would not permit Canada to be attacked by a power from abroad.

ONE IN EACH 25 DALLAS FAMILIES HIT BY DIVORCE

DALLAS, Tex., — One of every twenty-five families in Dallas county is eventually broken up by divorce, statistics just compiled by the research bureau of the Dallas Council of Social Agencies show.

However, the rate for Dallas is not so high as in some other Texas cities. The Dallas rate is six and one-half cases per 1,000 population. In Fort Worth it is seven and one-half and in Houston nine. More than three-quarters of the divorces granted came after less than ten years of married life, the report found. Number of divorces granted was in almost direct ratio to the poverty of the family—the lower the income and less prosperous the neighborhood, the greater likelihood the marriage will go on the rocks.

WATCH THEFT IS COSTLY

SACRAMENTO, Cal., — Theft of a fifty-cent watch by Reggie Lee Hopkins, 28-year-old negro transient, cost San Joaquin county $150 in jurors fees and other trial expenditures. The defendant was sentenced to San Quentin prison on second-degree robbery charges.

Come to Church Sunday

Our churches provide a spiritual atmosphere in which one can worship. They are a place of rest for tired, overwrought nerves, where attention can be shifted, from the troubles of living in this world, to the things God hath prepared for them that love him.

Our churches are the place where new emotions are stirred by inspiring music and under the spell of worship we are able to cast all our cares upon Him. Our Democracy is the Child of Christianity

Attack On Canada, Mexico Would Bring Immediate Move, Authority Says

DER FUHRER IN ICELAND?

Report That Nazis Study Air Base Brings Fear To North America

By Robert Nixon
WASHINGTON, March 24—The United States would oppose with the full strength of its powerful modern air force, fleet and land army, any attempt by Germany, or any other foreign power, to invade the Western Hemisphere through Canada or Mexico.

This was the unequivocal assertion today of a high American national defense authority to this correspondent.

With the shadow of Nazi domination extended over Czechoslovakia and Menel this week by threat of overwhelming military force, the possibility that Chancellor Hitler might turn an ambitious eye across the Atlantic to attack Canada from the air was based by reports that Germany is seeking to establish a military air base in Iceland.

International News Service asked a high American military authority what position the United States would take in case of a foreign attack on, or invasion of, Canada, which is not embraced in the Monroe Doctrine as Canada is a British dominion. This was his point blank reply:

"An attack on Canada would be the same as a German invasion of Belgium. Just as France and England would have to fight, it would be necessary for the United States to go out and repel an invasion of Canada instantly for, like Belgium, Canada would be simply a pathway to the United States.

Safety Considered

Such an attack, he insisted, must for this country's national safety bring instant retaliation by the full defensive forces of the United States. This country considers that any attack on a neighbor of the United States would be an attack on the United States. An attack on Canada, or Mexico, or any of the countries of Central or South America or the West Indies would be regarded as being for the purpose of establishing land bases from which hostile air squadrons and a land army, transported from overseas, could launch a direct and strong attack on the United States.

This authority pointed out that President Roosevelt already has extended the Monroe Doctrine to include Canada, despite the fact that it is a British dominion. At Kingston, Ontario, last year the chief executive declared the United States would not permit Canada to be attacked by a power from abroad.

ONE IN EACH 25 DALLAS FAMILIES HIT BY DIVORCE

DALLAS, Tex., — One of every twenty-five families in Dallas county is eventually broken up by divorce, statistics just compiled by the research bureau of the Dallas Council of Social Agencies show.

However, the rate for Dallas is not so high as in some other Texas cities. The Dallas rate is six and one-half cases per 1,000 population. In Fort Worth it is seven and one-half and in Houston nine. More than three-quarters of the divorces granted came after less than ten years of married life, the report found. Number of divorces granted was in almost direct ratio to the poverty of the family—the lower the income and less prosperous the neighborhood, the greater likelihood the marriage will go on the rocks.

Mrs. Anderson and visited with Mrs. Mary Terry and Mr. and Mrs. A. U. Brundige. Kingston The Philathea Sunday School class of the M. E. church will meet on Thursday p. m. March 30 at 2:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. L. E. Sims with Mrs. W. R. Sheridan and Mrs. Emma Miller.

Come to Church Sunday

Our churches provide a spiritual atmosphere in which one can worship. They are a place of rest for tired, overwrought nerves, where attention can be shifted, from the troubles of living in this world, to the things God hath prepared for them that love him.

Our churches are the place where new emotions are stirred by inspiring music and under the spell of worship we are able to cast all our cares upon Him.

Our Democracy is the Child of Christianity

Books on Nazi Activity, Labor Strife at Library

A list of new books offered by the public library and thumbnail sketches of the subjects were announced Friday by Miss Mary Wilder, librarian.
Many of the new editions are on subjects now uppermost in the lives of the American people. They include books on labor, politics, conservation and the rapid changing affairs of Europe.
The list includes:

McKenney, Ruth—Industrial Valley.
A day by day history of Akron, Ohio, from January, 1932 through March, 1935. Not a connected narrative, but rather a terse reporting of the highlights of industrial and political events as they affected the workers.
Overstreet, H. A.—Let Me Think.
A philosopher writes about everyday living. He discusses problems that every one must solve in some way.
Bryson, Lyman—Which Way America?
The theme of this book is battle, a battle of propagandas, each striving to win the support of the American people. While favoring democracy the book explains communism as it is in Russia, and fascism as it is in Italy and Germany.

Wright, Chester M.—Here Comes Labor.
The papers are full of labor news. The questions behind the news, that are being asked are—Where is labor going? What does it want? Who takes it on the chin during a strike? How does labor choose its leaders? What are the new laws doing for labor? What can we expect from now on?
Glover, Katherine—America Begins Again.
Review of the waste that has taken place in natural resources and what the government has done for conservation and restoration.
Baldwin, H. W. & others—We Saw It Happen.
The news behind the news, by 13 correspondents of the New York Times.
Van Loon, H. W.—Our Battle.
An answer to Hitler, which, with all of the author's older books, has just been banned in Germany.

Hitler, Adolf—Mein Kampf.
Unabridged edition of Hitler's "My Battle".

Wain, Nora—Reaching For The Stars.
During a four year residence in Germany, Austria, and Czechoslovakia, which began in 1934, the author made many friends. She appreciated the excellent qualities of the Germans and recognized the contrast between the people and their government. She also found evidence of hidden discontent and tragedy as well as the acceptance of Hitler's regime.

Gould, Kenneth Miller—Windows On The World.
Exposition of present world affairs. Business, democracy, socialism, communism, fascism, cooperatives are among the subjects discussed. Recently added to the Ohio

Teachers' reading circle recommendations.

Gunther, John—Inside Europe.
The latest, revised edition of this outstanding book, first published in 1936, has been received at the library.

Kaltendorf, Hans von—I Broadcast The Crisis.
The broadcasts in which this radio commentator kept America informed of the hour-by-hour developments during September and October, 1938.

Gibbs, Sir Philip H. Across The Frontiers.
Discusses informally European conditions and politics, admitting English errors in foreign policy.

Said that he'd be planting his sweet corn about April 20 and we'll be sure to remember where his patch is early in July.

Talked awhile to the cement block factory boys who had just finished quite a lot of them and were calling it a day. Said that prospects for sales were showing good and had many contracted for.

Moved on down to the south, going over Bob Walden's well improved and graveled alley, to the grain elevators, contacting on the way a busy bunch cleaning up and burning plenty of not needed rubbish and making things shine.

At the "North House" elevator met a Mr. Aiken, stout and robust, here from Marietta. Buys much grain here and hauls it to his mill in large loads. This Mr. Aiken and our Prof. Higley were classmates several years ago and "awful good" on the college football team there—they say.

And on over to the "South" elevator and found all the bosses of the place out in the storage room building a pig pen to house two, real, four-legged pigs, and no kidding, they said, and made us believe it after showing the drawn plans. So you may hear more about these pigs when they get into their new home.

Met a kindly disposed auto salesman hunting around for somebody who we guess had tried to give him the slip but we happen to know that he doesn't let many get away. Said business is good and March is showing better than any since 1926.

Got back to headquarters and there found Doc Gardner, Orville Mithoff and Si Smith and everything they were telling wouldn't go in one book. Orville said that everybody's friend, Gee Bee Stoker, soon now, was removing his big grocery off High street to Broad and Nelson Rd. Mr. Mithoff represents a number of canning plants, selling their products to wholesale concerns. Si said he had his plowing all done but found enough to do in caring for his fine herd of Guernseys.

John Good (and Good is right) and his family are now residents on bankers' row and Charles Baker, the son-in-law, is to occupy the dwelling made vacant by the Goods.

SALE OF DUCATS FOR LOUIS AND ROPER GO READY

LOS ANGELES, March 24—Los Angeles today was beginning to take on a brisk and lively interest in the coming world's championship heavyweight fight between Joe Louis and Challenger Jack Roper, scheduled for Wrigley field next April 17.

Promoter Tom Gallery announced that tickets, with a top price of $10, will go on sale at a downtown office Monday, that Lionel Levy, the New York architect, was due in town to supervise construction of the arena, the bleachers and all the rest that goes with a ball park set up, and that Buddy Baer might be on the same program.

"We certainly have got a lot of advance orders already," beamed Gallery. "But when the ticket office opens to the public, it will be first come first served, barring of course the mail orders received up to that time."

He said he expected Louis to come in from the Victorville dude ranch where he has been doing preliminary training tomorrow to discuss sparring partners with him.

"We certainly have got a lot of advance orders already," beamed Gallery. "But when the ticket office opens to the public, it will be first come first served, barring of course the mail orders received up to that time."

He said he expected Louis to come in from the Victorville dude ranch where he has been doing preliminary training tomorrow to discuss sparring partners with him.

OPEN LETTERS

TO CITY OFFICIALS

GENTLEMEN: What action do you plan to take on the recommendation of the Chamber of Commerce that a night officer be transferred to day work in the police department and kept on traffic duty? The recommendation deserves sincere consideration, especially since you found it too expensive to add another officer to the department. Residents of Circleville are disgusted with the feeble efforts made to enforce traffic regulations in the city during the daytime. The police cruiser is in the garage the greater part of the day and there is no motorcycle patrolman on duty. Motorists daily disregard traffic lights and speed laws. If you consider it too expensive to employ another officer why don't you work out some other arrangement to relieve the situation. Just because funds are not available for another officer is no reason why traffic violations should be permitted. If transfers are necessary in the department to find a solution to the problem then they should be made. Circleville residents are interested in results, not excuses.

CIRCUITEER.

TO ALL FOLK

FRIENDS: Are you attending services in your church during the pre-Easter season? If you are not participating in the exercises of your various congregations then this next Sunday would be an excellent time for you to start. All churches of Circleville and community are conducting programs of worship that are outstanding; they are complete in every respect, and they deserve your attention. All pastors are working diligently in preparation for the Easter celebration, that being one of the outstanding events of the church year. Special music is being arranged, special sermons are being preached, and special services are being scheduled. You should participate in the church of your faith. If you are not affiliated, then attend any church because the programs of all will be of benefit to you.

CIRCUITEER.

TO LANDOWNERS

FRIENDS: Why are so few persons interested in boosting a flood control program that would benefit Pickaway county? Is it because efforts in past years have been so fruitless? Pickaway county was many years obtaining the Route 22 improvement, but it finally was realized. Two Pickaway county members of the National Rivers and Harbors Congress did not attend the convention this week because of lack of support of a definite program that would aid this district. They contended that they could accomplish nothing two years ago when they went to the convention without that support. If anything is accomplished for this district it will come through a concerted effort on the part of all concerned. Federal funds for flood control are available, yet Pickaway county is not interested in obtaining them.

CIRCUITEER.

TO F. K. BLAIR

DEAR SIR: This week marked the opening of a series of meetings for organization of 4-H clubs throughout the county. Few persons realize the importance of these clubs to the young folk of the rural districts. They provide worthwhile entertainment and give specialized training in various types of industry. Last year there were 27 clubs organized with a total membership of 449 youngsters. You are to be congratulated on your efforts to increase the number of clubs, enlarge the programs and in general encourage more rural children to take advantage of the countless opportunities provided them under competent leaders.

CIRCUITEER.

TO U. B. CONGREGATION

MEMBERS: Honors of this week's column go to Circleville's United Brethren church, an institution that has served this city and community for 100 years. Sunday will be Homecoming Day in the church, climaxing a week of special services in observance of this anniversary. Bishop A. R. Clippinger, Dayton, will be guest of the day. He will preach at both the morning and evening service, dedicating the new organ at the evening service. In the afternoon will be a fellowship meeting with the Rev. P. E. Wright of Lancaster presenting the principal address. Greetings will be voiced by visiting pastors. Circleville folk are proud of the United Brethren church and have every wish it continues to prosper.

CIRCUITEER.

TO HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATES

ALUMNI: Hasn't it ever occurred to you that Circleville should have an active alumni association, dedicated to work for the success of Circleville high school, scholastically and on the athletic field? I'll venture that there are not a half a dozen high schools in Ohio in cities the size of Circleville that are not supported by strong alumni associations who get behind the school's activities to make them successful. Time after time, an alumni association, one that is active and under proper leadership, has opportunity to do things for its alma mater, and there isn't any reason why Circleville should not have such a unit. The Stooze Club, organized a few years ago and devoted to assist the high school, has done many notable things since its advent. The lighted athletic field might not be a reality if it were not for this organization and for the support interested businessmen gave the youths who make up the membership of the club. They would make an excellent nucleus for an alumni association.

World At A Glance

About as forlorn an individual as one can think of is a diplomat far, far from his native land, whose home government has just blown up, leaving him a foreign representative with nothing to represent. Minister Vladimir Hurban, of what was Czechoslovakia, is in this fix in Washington now. Uncle Sam has had a number of such derelicts on his hand in recent years. A diplomat whose government falls out with ours, even to the extent of going to war with us, isn't in such bad shape. In a situation of that sort it's a point of honor for any government to see that the opposition government's emissary in its midst is sent home in style. Back in World War days, although we deported German Ambassador Count Von Bernstorff, we did it with every formal mark of respect; we treated him as a sure-enough mogul so long as he was on the job.

But a diplomat whose domestic rulership pops overnight is left in the position of a man who has had the ground suddenly jerked from under him, with no place to land as he falls. He isn't recalled. He simply is terminated. He goes to bed an ambassador or a minister (extremely prominent in official Washington) and he wakes up—nothing; countryless where he came from, an alien here, and alone. He may be flat broke, too.

Russia's Queer Case

When czarism in Russia was overthrown, it was replaced by the comparatively moderate Kerensky regime, which we recognized. It sent to us Boris Bakhmeteff, an ambassador. He set up housekeeping in a very noisy embassy, inherited from the czar, originally bought and paid for—there wasn't any dispute about that.

But presently Kerensky-ism exploded. We didn't recognize the Soviets. It no longer was Bakhmeteff's property. He had to move out. The last I knew about it he was practicing law in New York.

But the embassy real estate? For years it did nothing but stand there, on Sixteenth Street, with nobody but a caretaker in charge. Of the ambassadorial staff nobody was left but Serge Ughet, who had been financial attache. Yet he no longer spoke with any authority. He lived in Manhattan. The embassy was an orphan. The caretaker himself wouldn't come to the door. Russia did, indeed maintain a commercial office in Washington under Boris Skvirsky, but it was independent of the former embassy; the quarters weren't his.

I tried again and again to discover to whom that embassy belonged; it's worth about $1,000,000. All I could learn from the State Department was that it was like an estate, left by a dead government, with no heir. Finally, however, we recognized the Soviets, and Ambassador Alexander A. Troyanovsky came into possession. So that's settled. Troyanovsky is in Russia on extended leave, but Charge d'Affaires Constantine A. Oumansky occupies the premises. The place seems to belong to Russia all right.

Austria, Spain, China? Not long ago, as we're aware, Herr Hitler gobbled Austria, which put Austrian Minister Edgar L. G. Prochnik out on the end of a limb. Dr. Prochnik found a position as a lecturer in a big American educational institution, taking care of him. But who inherits the Austrian legation building on Massachusetts avenue?

Republican Spain also has gone floozy. Ambassador Fernando de los Rios likewise has gone in for American education. But we haven't a successor to him yet—or recognized new Spain. Who acquires that embassy?

Chinese Ambassador Hu Shih is hanging on only by his eye teeth. He's likely to have an embassy to put on the market shortly. Now, Minister Hurban of Czechoslovakia has an offering. The diplomatic industry in Washington, in short, is being consolidated at a rate that endangers its prosperity. It's getting to be a trust. The anti-monopoly committee ought to get into action.

DIET AND HEALTH

Begin Now to Give Third Lung Airing

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
THE SKIN is the body's third lung. It is also the body's protection against heat and cold; it is Nature's garment.

And now that spring is here really and truly, it is time to give Nature's garment of protection an airing. Let us, as the Tentmaker said, "Winter's garment of repentance fling" into the camphor chest with the mothballs. Take off your heavy underwear, if you ever had it on, put on thinner garments, turn off the steam heat, open your windows and give your skin a chance.

Fifteen feet square is the area covered by the skin of the normal average adult, according to Dr. Alfred E. Hopkins, in Health Culture. The amount of perspiration thrown off Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

By an average adult in an atmosphere of temperature of about 99 degrees is about 30 ounces as compared with 15 ounces thrown off by the two lungs. This would look as if the skin did twice as much work as the lungs, but that is not quite true because the lungs continue the excretion regardless of temperature, whereas at a moderate temperature the skin excretes much less.

Carbonic Acid

About a third of the amount of carbonic acid waste gas which is thrown off by the lungs is thrown off by the skin. The skin throws off about four to five per cent of the amount of nitrogenous matter thrown off by the kidneys.

The skin also excretes some toxins and waste products of food, as you can tell if you stand near a garlic eater. All that garlic does not come from the breath alone. So you should give your skin a chance to breathe these first warm days. A distinguished statesman of our generation, having more than a flair for medical science, assures me that he opens the window every morning on arising at 10 a.m. around his room in the nude, even on winter days. Surely now that the weather is milder this would be a good tonic.

Air, sunshine and water are Nature's own invigorators of the third lung. The most potent and most widely known remedial measure for the treatment and invigoration of the skin is the use of water in any manner of application. The Chinese and Japanese, who have notoriously lovely, silky skin, are also the world's foremost bathers. Water is used for tonic and eliminative effect in almost every disease—fever, neurathenia, kidney troubles, heart failure, weakness, fatigue, nutritional difficulties as well as local skin troubles. Cold water is the most stimulating, and if the general health permits, a cold bath, especially a cold shower, every morning for a week or two, is a fine spring tonic. This should be used with caution by middle-aged people, and in any case if a feeling of exhilaration does not follow, it should be dropped.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

F. A. P.: "I am making an experiment to try to find the function of the spleen. May I have your opinion as to what role the spleen plays in the body?"

Answer—So far as anything is proved, it seems to me the spleen is a part of the blood system and has to do with the storage and destruction of red blood cells. What other functions it performs are still debatable. It may have an internal secretion; it may perform other vital functions, but since it can be removed without any apparent distress, it is somewhat difficult to guess what these functions are.

Mrs. J. H.: "I have an ache on one side of my face. It starts in my temple and soon the whole side of my face is aching. This started about eight years ago when I first became pregnant. What could be the cause of this condition?"

Answer: It is possible that you have tic douloureux (tik doo-loo-er).

CHAPTER THIRTY-FOUR

OUTSIDE JIM'S door at the hospital, with his delicious cry of "Murder!" still ringing in her ears, Lona felt an impulse to run that almost overcame her. She felt as if she could go down the corridor and out into the street and vanish forever, away from everything. . . . Jim, brown-eyed Jim, with his drawing, "Girl!" and his almost fierce understanding of her troubles. . . . Jim, in whom she had felt so secure—to find him connected with murder!

"The net! He'll go through it, I tell you! It's murder. . . ." Through the closed door the heavy voice sounded again, and putting her hands to her ears, she lurched down the hall. Without leaving word where she was going, she passed on out into the street.

What to do next was the problem that confronted her, as she struck out blindly through the misty September morning. She looked about her almost calmly at the bustle of the kindly little town she had grown in so short a time, to consider as home, and a rebellious lump rose in her throat. Why did things have to happen like this, she asked herself, beating her wings against her fate like a caged bird beats against its bars. She was a convict's daughter. Wasn't that sufficient? Did she have to be a convict's wife?

"No, oh, no!" She cried out aloud as the thought brought a picture of Jim flashing before her eyes. Jim, with his kindness and his gentleness, shut away from her, behind those grim bars, as daddy had been. She couldn't allow that to happen! Suddenly, as she tramped on, her shocked mind seemed to clear itself, and she knew that nothing really mattered but Jim's safety. She must protect him, somehow. That was the big thing. She must manage to keep people away from him until he was better—people who might suspect. And as soon as he was able to travel they must slip away from Brighton, well as she loved it. Move on. Two weeks, the detective had said in the letter he'd sent to Clark Martin. He would be back in two weeks! She must lay her plans carefully.

True to Dinah's predictions, the Brighton News carried the story of Jim's accident blazoned across its headlines that evening.

Opening the hospital's copy with trembling hands, Lona scanned it fearfully. Would there be a picture? She had learned so much of the ways of newspapers and their reporters that she was prepared for anything. It would not have surprised her in the very picture that had caused them to come to Brighton were not raked out of the files and printed again. She dreaded to look.

Her fears, however, were groundless. There were no pictures of her nor of Jim, and Mrs. Morris had evidently plied her reporter friend with so many facts that he had felt no necessity of going into personalities too deeply.

"Bridge Worker Saves Comrade. Plunges Into Water" the story was headed. A vivid account of the accident followed with Jim's heroism played up in glowing terms. Reading it, Lona felt the tension in her tired mind lessening. Nothing which might make people wonder about them was included. Instead of the tell-tale pictures she had feared, there was only a snapshot of the worker Jim had saved. Beneath it, and half way down the page, was another shot of the spidery, half-completed span of the new bridge.

"Accident Recalls Famous Colorado Experiment," the bridge picture was captioned and, under that lead, the reporter had taken his one flight into the reminiscence of Lona's near drowning. It was an impersonal enough article, but she caught her breath as her eyes followed the black lines that seemed, all at once, to leap out at her.

"Will a safety net for structural iron workers ever be developed? was the question raised anew by yesterday's accident on the Brighton bridge. Various safety devices have been tried in this most hazardous line of work without success. The most famous failure along this line occurred some five years ago on the now completed Wetmore bridge across the Colorado river at Wetmore, Colo.

As if by hiding that one copy she could keep back that damning information!

"A safety net was developed at that time by James Rankin, the assistant engineer in charge of the bridge. The net was given much publicity in the trade journals, and a test was arranged with the representative of a large manufacturing company present. One of the bridge workers, a friend of Rankin's, volunteered to jump from the top span while Rankin manipulated the net. The force of the jump sent the experimenter through the net and into the water below. Because of the entangling meshes, it was impossible to reach him and he drowned."

"Rankin, who claimed his invention had been tampered with, disappeared after making a statement to that effect. Upon examination it was found the net had been purposely weakened. Further investigation uncovered friction between the victim and Rankin over ownership of the pending patent. For his part in the much publicized experiment, the victim had demanded a share of future royalties, an arrangement to which the inventor objected."

"Subsequently a suit against Rankin was entered by the dead man's heirs, but the patent on the net, which was granted to Rankin shortly following his disappearance, was never taken up, and the suit was dropped. Rankin, wanted for questioning, never has been traced, and evidence pointing to his deliberate tampering with his own invention never has been aired in court."

Lona stood for a long moment staring down at the paper when she had finished reading. Then, almost furtively, she folded the sheet with the tell-tale article hidden from view and slipped it back among the magazines on the desk. It was an instinctive action, and the next moment she realized its futility. As if by hiding that one copy she could keep back that damning bit of information!

Her head was whirling as Jim's nurse, calm-faced and smiling, came down the corridor to the desk. "Our patient's quite a hero," she observed in her professional voice. "Newspapers make people so romantic, don't you think, Mrs. Bennett?"

She reached for the folded paper and Lona felt a sudden impulse to tear it up. She could have screamed as the woman opened the page. Then, with an effort, she pulled herself together.

"How is he?" she managed to ask, her voice surprising her by its nonchalance. "Is he—rational?" "He's still a little delirious, but you mustn't worry. It's only to be expected in a case like this. He keeps talking about some kind of a net, as if it bothered him. It's odd how he keeps on that one subject. You wouldn't know why, I suppose?"

She was looking at the paper as she spoke and Lona's heart jumped. The nurse's eyes were traveling down toward that picture and its story. In another moment she would see it. Would she grasp the significance?

"There's something I'd like you and the doctor to do for me," Lona burst out, desperately, and the nurse struck her eyes from the paper, roused by her altered tone. "It's about this—this delirium of Jim's. You see, Jim is rather—sensitive. He'd hate to have anyone know he was out of his head. He thinks it's sort of a—disgrace, somehow. I'm wondering if you'll keep everybody away from him until he's normal again. Just you and the doctor and myself, of course. He'd hate for anybody else to know—" She broke off, conscious that her explanation was lame.

But the nurse smiled indulgently. "You mustn't worry about that, Mrs. Bennett," she soothed. "Of course we're keeping everybody out. We've even shoed you away when you'd stand for it," she laughed.

"Jim would particularly hate for the men at the bridge to know he's raving," Lona stammered on. "There is a Mr. Martin, the engineer, who comes to see him. You mustn't let him in."

"Why, my dear, of course he won't get in. Are—are you sure you're not a little feverish yourself? You mustn't let this get you down. We'll take care of Jim. You mustn't worry so much. You're like a fond grandmother. . . ." She laughed again, and patted Lona's shoulder.

"We've only been married a few weeks," Lona blurted out then. "I guess I'm not used to—having things happen—"

"Why, you're only a bride. How thrilling! No wonder you're fussy." The woman put her arm about Lona's shoulders and turned her back down the corridor toward Jim's room.

"You'll have to get used to accidents if you're married to a man who insists upon working on bridges," she bantered, and Lona managed a weak smile.

"It's just hearing him rave that sort of—gets me," she managed to observe, and tried to hide the shrinking that came over her as they approached Jim's door, and the hoarse murmur of his voice sounded from inside.

"The net! . . . The net!" he was crying as they entered, and Lona's heart went sick within her. She MUST keep people away from him. Nobody must hear, least of all Engineer Martin, and Dinah.

All pastors are working diligently in preparation for the Easter celebration, that being one of the outstanding events of the church year. Special music is being arranged, special sermons are being preached, and special services are being scheduled. You should participate in the church of your faith. If you are not affiliated, then attend any church because the programs of all will be of benefit to you.

CIRCUITEER.

TO LANDOWNERS

FRIENDS: Why are so few persons interested in boosting a flood control program that would benefit Pickaway county? Is it because efforts in past years have been so fruitless? Pickaway county was many years obtaining the Route 22 improvement, but it finally was realized. Two Pickaway county members of the National Rivers and Harbors Congress did not attend the convention this week because of lack of support of a definite program that would aid this district. They contended that they could accomplish nothing two years ago when they went to the convention without that support. If anything is accomplished for this district it will come through a concerted effort on the part of all concerned. Federal funds for flood control are available, yet Pickaway county is not interested in obtaining them.

TO F. K. BLAIR

DEAR SIR: This week marked the opening of a series of meetings for organization of 4-H clubs throughout the county. Few persons realize the importance of these clubs to the young folk of the rural districts. They provide worthwhile entertainment and give specialized training in various types of industry. Last year there were 27 clubs organized with a total membership of 449 youngsters. You are to be congratulated on your efforts to increase the number of clubs, enlarge the programs and in general encourage more rural children to take advantage of the countless opportunities provided them under competent leaders.

TO U. B. CONGREGATION

MEMBERS: Honors of this week's column go to Circleville's United Brethren church, an institution that has served this city and community for 100 years. Sunday will be Homecoming Day in the church, climaxing a week of special services in observance of this anniversary. Bishop A. R. Clippinger, Dayton, will be guest of the day. He will preach at both the morning and evening service, dedicating the new organ at the evening service. In the afternoon will be a fellowship meeting with the Rev. P. E. Wright of Lancaster presenting the principal address. Greetings will be voiced by visiting pastors. Circleville folk are proud of the United Brethren church and have every wish it continues to prosper.

CIRCUITEER.

TO HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATES

ALUMNI: Hasn't it ever occurred to you that Circleville should have an active alumni association, dedicated to work for the success of Circleville high school, scholastically and on the athletic field? I'll venture that there are not a half a dozen high schools in Ohio in cities the size of Circleville that are not supported by strong alumni associations who get behind the school's activities to make them successful. Time after time, an alumni association, one that is active and under proper leadership, has opportunity to do things for its alma mater, and there isn't any reason why Circleville should not have such a unit. The Stogie Club, organized a few years ago and devoted to assist the high school, has done many notable things since its advent. The lighted athletic field might not be a reality if it were not for this organization and for the support interested businessmen gave the youths who make up the membership of the club. They would make an excellent nucleus for an alumni association.

World At A Glance

—By—
Charles P. Stewart

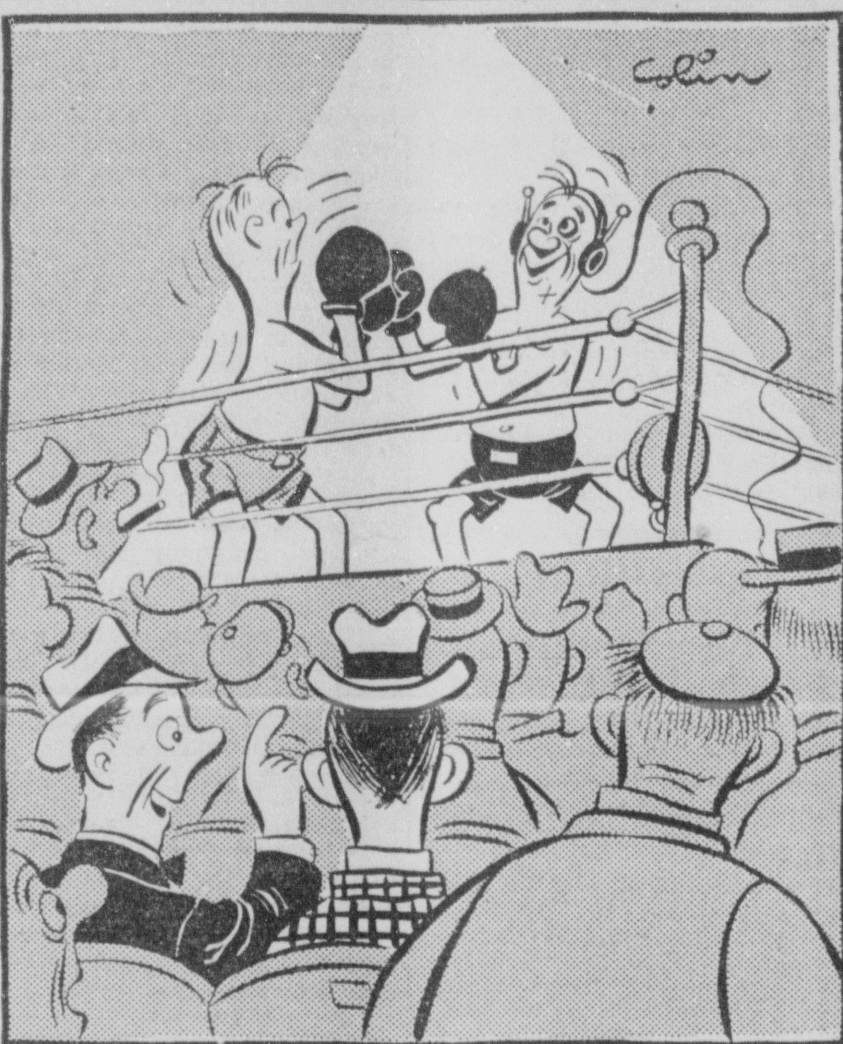

About as forlorn an individual as one can think of is a diplomat far, far from his native land, whose home government has just blown up, leaving him a foreign representative with nothing to represent. Minister Vladimir Hurban, of what was Czecho-Slovakia, is in this fix in Washington now. Uncle Sam as had a number of such derelicts on his hand in recent years. A diplomat whose government falls out with ours, even to the extent of going to war with us, isn't in such bad shape. In a situation of that sort it's a point of honor for any government to see that the opposition government's emissary in its midst is sent home in style. Back in World War days, although we deported German Ambassador Count von Bernstorff, we did it with every formal mark of respect; we treated him as a sure-enough mogul so long as he was on the job.

But a diplomat whose domestic rulership pops overnight is left in the position of a man who has left the ground suddenly jerked from under him, with no place to land as he falls. He isn't recalled. He simply is terminated. He goes to bed an ambassador or a minister (extremely prominent in official Washington) and he wakes up — nothing; countryless where he came from, an alien here, and alone. He may be flat broke, too.

Russia's Queer Case
When czarism in Russia was overthrown, it was replaced by the comparatively moderate Kerensky regime, which we recognized. It sent to us Boris Bakmeteff, as ambassador. He set up housekeeping in a very nobby embassy, inherited from the czar, originally bought and paid for—there wasn't any dispute about that. But presently Kerenskyism exploded. We didn't recognize the Soviets. No longer was Bakmeteff's property. He had to move out. The last I knew about it he was practicing law in New York. But the embassy real estate? For years it did nothing but stand there, on Sixteenth Street, with nobody but a caretaker in charge. Of the ambassadorial staff nobody was left but Serge Skvirsky, who had been financial attache. Yet he no longer spoke with any authority. He lived in Manhattan. The embassy was an orphan. The caretaker himself wouldn't come to the door. Russia did, indeed maintain a commercial office in Washington under Boris Skvirsky, but it was independent of the former embassy; the quarters weren't his. I tried again and again to discover to whom that embassy belonged; it's worth about $1,000,000. All I could learn from the State Department was that it was like an estate, left by a dead government, with no heir. Finally, however, we recognized the Soviets, and Ambassador Alexander A. Troyanovsky came into possession. So that's settled. Troyanovsky is in Russia on extended leave, but Charge d'Affaires Constantine A. Oumansky occupies the premises. The place seems to belong to Russia all right. Austria, Spain, China? Not long ago, as we're aware, Herr Hitler gobbled Austria, which put Austrian Minister Edgar L. G. Prochnik out on the end of a limb. Dr. Prochnik found a position as a lecturer in a big American educational institution, taking care of him. But who inherits the Austrian legation building on Massachusetts avenue? Republican Spain also has gone floozy. Ambassador Fernando de los Rios likewise has gone in for American education. But we haven't a successor to him yet—or recognized new Spain. Who acquires that embassy? Chinese Ambassador Hu Shih is hanging on only by his eye teeth. He's likely to have an embassy to put on the market shortly. Now, Minister Hurban of Czecho-Slovakia has an offering. The diplomatic industry in Washington, in short, is being consolidated at a rate that endangers its prosperity. It's getting to be a trust. The anti-monopoly committee ought to get into action.

DIET AND HEALTH

Begin Now to Give Third Lung Airing

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

THE SKIN is the body's third lung. It is also the body's protection against heat and cold; it is Nature's garment.

And now that spring is here really and truly, it is time to give Nature's garment of protection an airing. Let us, as the Tentmaker said, "Winter's garment of repentance fling" into the canphor chest with the mothballs. Take off your heavy underwear, if you ever had it on, put on thinner garments, turn off the steam heat, open your windows and give your skin a chance.

Fifteen feet square is the area covered by the skin of the normal average adult, according to Dr. Alfred E. Hopkins in Health Culture. The amount of perspiration thrown off by an average adult in an atmospheric temperature of about 99 degrees is about 30 ounces as compared with 15 ounces thrown off by the two lungs. This would look as if the skin did twice as much work as the lungs, but that is not quite true because the lungs continue the excretion regardless of temperature, whereas at a moderate temperature the skin excretes much less.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Carbonic Acid
About a third of the amount of carbonic acid waste gas which is thrown off by the lungs is thrown off by the skin. The skin throws off about four to five per cent of the amount of nitrogenous matter thrown off by the kidneys.

The skin also excretes some toxins and waste products of food, as you can tell if you stand near a garlic eater. All that garlic does not come from the breath alone.

So you should give your skin a chance to breathe these first warm days. A distinguished statesman of our generation, having more than a flair for medical science, assures me that he opens the window every morning on arising at 10 parades around his room in the nude, even on winter days. Surely now that the weather is milder this would be a good tonic.

Air, sunshine and water are Nature's own invigorators of the third lung. The most potent and most widely known remedial measure for the treatment and invigoration of the skin is the use of water in any manner of application. The Chinese and Japanese, who have notoriously lovely, silky skin, are also the world's foremost bathers. Water is used for tonic and eliminative effect in almost every disease—fever, neurasthenia, kidney troubles, heart failure, weakness, fatigue, nutritional difficulties as well as local skin troubles. Cold water is the most stimulating, and if the general health permits, a cold bath, especially a cold shower, every morning for a week or two, is a fine spring tonic. This should be used with caution by middle-aged people, and in any case if a feeling of exhilaration does not follow, it should be dropped.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

F. A. P.: "I am making an experiment to try to find the function of the spleen. May I have your opinion as to what role the spleen plays in the body?"

Answer—So far as anything is proved, it seems to me the spleen is a part of the blood system and has to do with the storage and destruction of red blood cells. What other functions it performs are still debatable. It may have an internal secretion; it may perform other vital functions, but since it can be removed without any apparent distress, it is somewhat difficult to guess what these functions are.

Mrs. J. H.: "I have an ache on one side of my face. It starts in my temple and soon the whole side of my face is aching. This started about eight years ago when I first became pregnant. What could be the cause of this condition?"

Answer: It is possible that you have tic douloureux (tik doo-loo-er).

EDITOR'S NOTE: Seven pamphlets by Dr. Clendening can now be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin, for each, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendening, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

CHAPTER THIRTY-FOUR

OUTSIDE JIM'S door at the hospital, with his delirious cry of "Murder!" still ringing in her ears, Lona felt an impulse to run that almost overcame her. She felt as if she could go down the corridor and out into the street and vanish forever, away from everything. . . . Jim, brown-eyed Jim, with his drawing, "Girl" and his almost fierce understanding of her troubles. . . . Jim, in whom she had felt so secure—to find him connected with murder!

"The net! He'll go through it, I tell you! It's murder. . . ." Through the closed door the heavy voice sounded again, and putting her hands to her ears, she lurched down the hall. Without leaving word where she was going, she passed on out into the street.

What to do next was the problem that confronted her, as she struck out blindly through the misty September morning. She looked about her almost calmly at the bustle of the kindly little town she had grown, in so short a time, to consider as home, and a rebellious lump rose in her throat. Why did things have to happen like this, she asked herself, beating her wings against her fate like a caged bird beats against its bars. She was a convict's daughter. Wasn't that sufficient? Did she have to be a convict's wife?

"No, oh, no!" She cried out aloud as the thought brought a picture of Jim flashing before her eyes. Jim, with his kindness and his gentleness, shut away from her, behind those grim bars, as daddy had been. She couldn't allow that to happen!

Suddenly, as she tramped on, her shocked mind seemed to clear itself, and she knew that nothing really mattered but Jim's safety. She must protect him, somehow. That was the big thing. She must manage to keep people away from him until he was better—people who might suspect. And as soon as he was able to travel they must slip away from Brighton, well as she loved it. Move on. Two weeks, the detective had said in the letter he'd sent to Clark Martin. He would be back in two weeks! She must lay her plans carefully.

True to Dinah's predictions, the Brighton News carried the story of Jim's accident blazoned across its headlines that evening.

Opening the hospital's copy with trembling hands, Lona scanned it fearfully. Would there be a picture? She had learned so much of the ways of newspapers and their reporters that she was prepared for anything. It would not have surprised her if the very picture that had caused them to come to Brighton were not raked out of the files and printed again. She dreaded to look.

Her fears, however, were groundless. There were no pictures of her nor of Jim, and Mrs. Morris had evidently plied her reporter friend with so many facts that he had felt no necessity of going into personalities too deeply.

"Big Game Worker Saves Comrade, Plunges Into Water" the story was headed. A vivid account of the accident followed with Jim's heroism played up in glowing terms. Reading it, Lona felt the tension in her tired mind lessening. Nothing which might make people wonder about them was included. Instead of the tell-tale pictures she had feared, there was only a snapshot of the worker Jim had saved. Beneath it, and half way down the page, was another shot of the spidery, half-completed span of the new bridge.

"Accident Recalls Famous Colorado Experiment," the bridge picture was captioned and, under that lead, the reporter had taken his one flight into the reminiscence Lona had been dreading. It was an impersonal enough article, but she caught her breath as her eyes followed the black lines that seemed, all at once, to leap out at her.

"Will a safety net for structural iron workers ever be developed?" was the question raised anew by yesterday's accident on the Brighton bridge. Various safety devices have been tried in this most hazardous line of work without success. The most famous failure along this line occurred some five years ago on the now completed Wetmore bridge across the Colorad river at Wetmore, Colo. "A safety net was developed at that time by James Rankin, the assistant engineer in charge of the bridge. The net was given much publicity in the trade journals, and a test was arranged with the representative of a large manufacturing company present. One of the bridge workers, a friend of Rankin's, volunteered to jump from the top span while Rankin manipulated the net. The force of the jump sent the experimenter through the net and into the water below. Because of the entangling meshes, it was impossible to reach him and he drowned.

"Rankin, who claimed his invention had been tampered with, disappeared after making a statement to that effect. Upon examination it was found the net had been purposely weakened. Further investigation uncovered friction between the victim and Rankin over ownership of the pending patent. For his part in the much publicized experiment, the victim had demanded a share of future royalties, an arrangement to which the inventor objected.

"Subsequently a suit against Rankin was entered by the dead man's heirs, but the patent on the net, which was granted to Rankin shortly following his disappearance, was never taken up, and the suit was dropped. Rankin, wanted for questioning, never has been traced, and evidence pointing to his deliberate tampering with his own invention never has been aired in court."

Lona stood for a long moment staring down at the paper when she had finished reading. Then, almost furtively, she folded the sheet with the tell-tale article hidden from view and slipped it back among the magazines on the desk. It was an instinctive action, and the next moment she realized its futility. As if by hiding that one copy she could keep back that damning bit of information!

Her head was whirling as Jim's nurse, calm-faced and smiling, came down the corridor to the desk.

"Our patient's quite a hero," she observed in her professional voice. "Newspapers make people so romantic, don't you think, Mrs. Bennett?"

She reached for the folded paper and Lona felt a sudden impulse to tear it up. She could have screamed at the woman opened the page. Then, with an effort, she pulled herself together.

"How is he?" she managed to ask, her voice surprising her by its nonchalance. "Is he—rational?"

"He's still a little delirious, but you mustn't worry. It's only to be expected in a case like this. He keeps talking about some kind of Wetmore bridge across the Colo-

Deercreek Garden Club Talks of Flowers, Bulbs

Parish House in Williamsport Scene

Flowers and bulbs for Spring and Summer planting were discussed during the program hour of the Deercreek Garden Club, Thursday, at its meeting in the Williamsport parish house. Twenty-five members and three guests, Mrs. C. A. Dickey of Greenfield, Mrs. John Carmean and Jeanne Rose of Williamsport were present. Mrs. Carmean was received as a member. The name of Mrs. Nelle Wallace was also presented.

Mrs. J. B. Johnson presided during the business hour and received the reports of Mrs. W. D. Heiskell and Mrs. C. W. Hayes, secretary and treasurer, respectively. A letter was read from Mrs. C. K. Hunsicker of Circleville inviting the club members and their husbands to attend a covered dish supper at her home, Friday, April 14.

Because of illness in her family, Mrs. Ella Hornbeck, program leader was unable to be present. Mrs. Johnson conducted a school of instruction in which all members took part. Following the discussion of Spring and Summer flowers and bulbs, Mrs. Johnson conducted a contest which closed the program.

A bowl of daffodils centered the tea table where Mrs. H. W. Campbell and Mrs. Johnson presided during the social hour. Refreshments were served by the hostesses including Mrs. Campbell, Mrs. Royal Hamman and Mrs. Russell Wardell.

The next meeting of the garden club will be Thursday April 27.

Williamsport Dinner Bridge

Mrs. C. A. Dickey of Greenfield and Mrs. M. Wendell Boyer of Williamsport were invited for the evening when Mr. and Mrs. Harry McGhee entertained their dinner-bridge club Thursday at the Wardell party home.

Vases of jonquills centered the small tables where the guests were seated for dinner at 6:30 p. m.

In the games of auction bridge played during the evening prizes went to Mrs. S. B. Metzger, Mrs. Harold Bowers, H. W. Campbell and Lee Luellen.

Club members present were Mr. and Mrs. C. K. Hunsicker, Circleville; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bowers, Ashville; Mr. and Mrs. Glen Baker, Wilmington; Mrs. Russell McDill of Frankfort; Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Metzger, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Luellen, Mr. and Mrs. George LeMay and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Dunlap of Williamsport.

Mr. and Mrs. Anderson will be hosts when the club meets Saturday, April 22.

Tuxis Club

The Tuxis club of the Presbyterian church met in the social room following choir practice, Thursday evening, with 26 members present.

An open forum of religious discussion was held during the first hour followed by games and contests in charge of Robert Kline and James Callahan, members of the program committee.

During the business session plans were discussed for a meeting once a month with the members of the Epworth League of the Methodist Episcopal church.

Lunch was served by the Misses Martha and Virginia Hulse.

Business Women's Club

Orion King of W. High street presented a talk on, "The Prevention of Crime", during the program hour of the Business and Professional Women's club Thursday in the club room E. Main street.

In the absence of Miss Clara Southward, Miss Frances Jones, vice president, conducted the brief business meeting, a representative group of members being present.

Preceding the bi-monthly session, the club met for dinner at the Franklin Inn.

Deercreek Garden Club Talks of Flowers, Bulbs

Parish House in Williamsport Scene

Flowers and bulbs for Spring and Summer planting were discussed during the program hour of the Deercreek Garden club, Thursday, at its meeting in the Williamsport parish house. Twenty-five members and three guests, Mrs. C. A. Dickey of Greenfield, Mrs. John Carmean and Jeanne Rose of Williamsport were present. Mrs. Carmean was received as a member. The name of Mrs. Nelle Wallace was also presented.

Mrs. J. B. Johnson presided during the business hour and received the reports of Mrs. W. D. Heiskell and Mrs. C. W. Hayes, secretary and treasurer, respectively. A letter was read from Mrs. C. K. Hunsicker of Circleville inviting the club members and their husbands to attend a covered dish supper at her home, Friday, April 14.

Because of illness in her family, Mrs. Ella Hornbeck, program leader was unable to be present. Mrs. Johnson conducted a school of instruction in which all members took part. Following the discussion of Spring and Summer flowers and bulbs, Mrs. Johnson conducted a contest which closed the program.

A bowl of daffodils centered the tea table where Mrs. H. W. Campbell and Mrs. Johnson presided during the social hour. Refreshments were served by the hostesses including Mrs. Campbell, Mrs. Royal Hamman and Mrs. Russell Wardell.

The next meeting of the garden club will be Thursday April 27.

Williamsport Dinner Bridge

Mrs. C. A. Dickey of Greenfield and Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Boyer of Williamsport were invited for the evening when Mr. and Mrs. Harry McGhee entertained their dinner-bridge club Thursday at the Wardell party home.

Vases of jonquils centered the small tables where the guests were seated for dinner at 6:30 p. m.

In the games of auction bridge played during the evening prizes went to Mrs. S. B. Metzger, Mrs. Harold Bowers, H. W. Campbell and Lee Luellen.

Club members present were Mr. and Mrs. C. K. Hunsicker, Circleville; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bowers, Ashville; Mr. and Mrs. Glen Baker, Wilmington; Mrs. Russell McDill of Frankfort; Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Metzger, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Luellen, Mr. and Mrs. George LeMay and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Dunlap of Williamsport.

Mr. and Mrs. Anderson will be hosts when the club meets Saturday, April 22.

Tuxis Club

The Tuxis club of the Presbyterian church met in the social room following choir practice, Thursday evening, with 26 members present. An open forum of religious discussion was held during the first hour followed by games and contests in charge of Robert Kline and James Callahan, members of the program committee.

During the business session plans were discussed for a meeting once a month with the members of the Epworth League of the Methodist Episcopal church. Lunch was served by the Misses Martha and Virginia Hulise.

Oregon Five Tall, Mighty

COLUMBUS, March 24—Western Conference champions and survivors of the Eastern National Collegiate basketball tournament, Ohio State's confident cage squad today prepared to shove off for Chicago where Monday night they will tangle with Oregon for the national collegiate basketball championship.

Rated as one of the greatest teams in Pacific coast history, Oregon will present a somewhat awe-inspiring sight. Four of the Webfoots are six feet in height or over, but the fifth member is a veritable midget.

He is Bobby Anet and reports from the coast say he travels around his teammates so fast they can't keep track of him.

At the tip-off post, the Webfoots have six-foot eight-inch Ugel Wintermute, who towers only two inches over forward John Dick. Sealing only a mere six feet are Laddy Gale, a forward and Wally Johnson, a guard.

Ohio Coach Harold Olsen is expected to start Johnny Shick, regular center, and Bob Sattler, substitute center, in an effort to combat Oregon's height.

Coast backers of the Webfoots, see nothing but a victory over the Buckeyes and point to Oregon victories over California and Washington, both of whom conquered Ohio State.

The Federal Glass team of Columbus had too much power and too much Glen Golden for Caskey Cleaners. Golden, playing the tip-off position and handling the pivot play assignment, tallied 19 points on seven buckets and five free tosses. Gregg and Young did best for the Caskey crew.

Purina Feeds advanced in the tournament by keeping an edge throughout the game over the Milo Merchants, victors in one of the Columbus leagues. Purina scoring was fairly evenly divided, Bob Terhune taking the top honor with nine counters.

The Cooper Oils held a 22-13 lead at the half and increased it in the second half over the Glitt athletes, Russell and Todd each hitting the hoop for seven shots from action.

Games tonight include:
7. Coca Cola vs. Hocking Glass office-decorating.
8. Blakeman A. C. vs. Chillicothe City Club.
9. Eshelman Feeds vs. Model Dairy.
10. Wallace Bakery vs. Bobb's Chevrolet's.
11. Anchor-Hocking Glass No. 2 vs. Falter Packers.

OFFICERS OF JUNIOR FAIR BEGIN PREPARATION FOR PUMPKIN SHOW

INITIAL MEETING OF 1939 FIXED FOR THURSDAY

Official Staff To Be Named At Gathering; Only Senior Members To Attend

Reorganization meeting of the Pickaway County Junior Fair board, affiliate of the Pickaway County agricultural society which conducts the annual Pumpkin Show, will be held Thursday at 7:30 p. m. in the county school office.

Officers will be elected and there will be a preliminary discussion of plans for the 1939 Junior Fair. This meeting will be for the senior members of the board. Junior members will be named later by the senior members. Senior members head the various departments of the exhibit.

The 1938 officers were G. D. Bradley, agriculture instructor at Pickaway and Jackson township schools, president; A. Wendell Boyer, superintendent of Deer creek township schools, vice president, and George D. McDowell, superintendent of county schools and a director of the agricultural society, secretary and treasurer. Other senior members of the board are F. K. Blair, county extension agent; Miss Mary Shortridge, Jackson township; Kenneth Holtrey and Miss Olive Grimm, Walnut township, school instructors; Mrs. Cletus Kershner, Scioto street; Mrs. Turney Glick, Circleville township, and Dr. G. D. Phillips, Beverly road.

WORKMAN WINS GRAND NATIONAL RACE AT AINTREE

AINTREE, Eng., March 24 — With over a million dollars in American prize money riding on his heels, Six Alexander Maguire's Workman today won the 101st running of the Grand National steeplechase.

MacMoffat was second and Kilstar third.

Ten American ticket-holders in the Irish hospitals sweepstakes won $150,000 apiece when Workman came home the winner by three lengths.

Eight Americans won $50,000 apiece on Kilstar, the outstanding favorite.

DEPUTY, TRUSTY HAVE FUN DISPOSING OF EVIDENCE

Court house employees had some fun Thursday over the difficulty Robert Adkins, court bailiff and deputy sheriff, had in removing some evidence used in a recent case involving the manufacture of liquor.

The evidence, ordered destroyed by Judge Meeker Terwilliger, included an old steel drum, wooden barrel, copper coil and about two gallons of mash. The wooden barrel, being carried by a jail trusty "folded up" on the stairs between the first and second floors. The other equipment was broken up and the mash went down a sewer.

W.P.A. RECREATION PLANS KITE CONTEST ON APRIL 1

A kite tournament, open to all Pickaway countians, will be held April 1 under the direction of the W. P. A. recreation department.

All kites must be homemade. Entries must be listed for the contest not later than Friday, March 30. Entries may be listed with recreation leaders. Thirty-seven entries have been listed to date. Prizes will be awarded.

A welter roast for children of the S. Washington street recreation center will be held Friday at 6:30 p. m. A program will follow the roast.

LETTERS ISSUED IN COURT IN THREE COUNTY ESTATES

Letters of administration in three estates were issued Thursday in Probate court.

Mrs. Eloise Fee, Circleville Route 5, a daughter, was appointed administratrix of the estate of James I. Wolford, late of Jackson township. The estate is estimated at $8,760, including real estate valued at $7,560.

Charles M. Lane, of Mt. Sterling Route 3, was appointed administrator of the estate of his wife, Mrs. Susie A. Lane, late of Monroe township. Her estate is estimated at $2,940.

Letters of administration in the estate of Nelson Hampp, late of Ashville, were issued to a son, John Leroy Hampp, 522 S. Scioto street, Circleville. A report lists the estate at $1,500.

Orin Young, 47, of the Ridge district, Fairfield county, was improved Friday. Mr. Young is in Berger hospital suffering from injuries received when struck by a hit-skip motorist Wednesday night on Route 22.

Mrs. Malcolm Russell and baby daughter were discharged from Berger hospital Friday to return to their home at 345 Watt street.

ATTEMPT TO GAS WIDOW AND TWO GIRLS STUDIED

CINCINNATI, March 24 — Still mystified by the attempt to asphyxiate a widow and her two daughters in their suburban Northwood apartment, police today checked the report that the "gas murderer" tried to gain entrance to another home in the same neighborhood.

The first case was reported to police by Mrs. Ora Craig and her two daughters, Miss Josephine Snead and Miss Helen Craig. Awakened by a noise, Miss Snead told authorities she saw a white man closing a window in their apartment. Then she discovered six gas jets turned on in the kitchen.

Later Mrs. George Siegle, occupant of an adjacent apartment called the attention of police to marks on the sill of a rear window in her suite.

SOCIAL SECURITY PROVISIONS MAY BE ALTERED SOON

WASHINGTON, March 24 — President Roosevelt and his chief financial advisers joined today to support abandonment of provisions in the Social Security act for creation of a vast reserve fund which, according to some authorities, would eventually reach upwards of forty billion dollars.

The executive, at his press conference, expressed the opinion that a two-and-a-half to three billion dollar reserve fund should replace the unlimited fund provided for under the present Social Security act.

TROOP ACTIVITY IN SLOVAKIA TO BRING REPROACH

Adolf Returns Home After Triumphant Journey Into Memel District

(Continued from Page One) incident will result in another episode of German expansion. Bitter fighting was reported between Slovakian defenders and the Hungarian troops. The situation was complicated by the fact that only yesterday Germany and Slovakia signed a treaty whereby Germany assumed "protection" of Slovakia for 25 years.

Considerable significance was attached to the fact that the German government took great pains to deny foreign reports that Hungary had been invited by the Reich to send troops into Slovakia.

May Be Violation

The denial led to the possibility Germany may consider the Hungarian action a "violation" of the Slovakian frontiers—a finding that might lead to a grave situation.

What Hitler's attitude will be could not be foretold, but it was recalled that when he addressed the Germans in Memel yesterday he stressed that:

"Germany intends to be the master of its own fate in the future, even though this may not please the rest of the world."

Today, however, with his dream of restoration of Memel to the Reich an accomplished fact, the Fuehrer was expected to give his entire attention to the Hungarian-Slovakian situation.

Hints that Hitler may take speedy, forceful action were seen in the generally expressed opinion that Germany cannot permit to pass unnoticed Hungary's forcible seizure of Slovakian territory.

BUDAPEST, Hungary, March 24 — Hungarian government officials today disclaimed any intention of this country to seize Slovakia, now under the protection of the expanding Nazi Reich.

Reports from Slovakia indicated hostilities between Hungarian and Slovak troops were in progress after the outburst of fierce fighting yesterday.

But the Hungarian government contended the incidents resulted solely from efforts to rectify the border between Slovakia and Hungary's recently-occupied Ruthenian territory.

(Warsaw reports indicated the Hungarians had occupied the entire Sobrance area and had made still further advances. These advances, relayed from Bratislava, stated some Hungarian troops had penetrated as far as 20 miles within the Slovak border.)

According to a Budapest announcement, several points in the disputed border area were taken by Hungarian troops to straighten out the border and "insure the security of the railroad running north from Ungvar to Uzsak."

The protest filed with the Budapest government by the "autonomous" Slovakian regime charged the Hungarians had violated the Slovak borders and hence had encountered armed resistance.

In his reply, Hungarian Foreign Minister Count Stephen Cskay pledged an immediate inquiry, pointing to possibility of local incidents in view of the undefined frontier, but added:

"However, there is no question whatsoever of organized military operations against Slovakia on the part of Hungary."

Commission Assigned It was also stated a mixed Slovak-Hungarian commission had been assigned to delineate the frontier between Slovakia and Hungary's Ruthenian areas.

BRATISLAVA, March 24 — Slovakian government authorities awaited anxiously today for Berlin's reaction to word that Hungarian troops have advanced into Slovakia.

Meanwhile, observers felt that a Hungarian reply to a Slovak note of protest did little to clear the air.

Explosive Spots In Europe

RETURN of Memel (A) assured to Germany following Lithuania capitulation to Reich demands, leaves these eruptive points in a simmering Europe. Forty-two divisions of Germans were reported clustered in Moravia (B), Hungarians massed near northern Rumanian frontier (C), and Bulgarians near southern Rumanian frontier (D). Shooting of a German in Brasov (E), Rumania, stirred apprehension of an international incident.

Liberal Sought

The administration is particularly desirous of replacing Douglas with a man of Hutchins' liberal principles because of the increasing demands for relaxation of the securities acts.

Hutchins is expected to stand firm against any weakening of federal stock market regulation and will carry on virtually to the letter the policies laid down by Douglas.

WIFE WHO AIDED HUSBAND TO END LIFE IS JAILED

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., March 24—Mrs. Marie Burckhalter, comely 43-year-old widow, today was sentenced to from two and one-half to 20 years in prison for assisting her husband to commit suicide several months ago.

The husband, Eugene, assertedly snuffed out his own life in the garage of his home where his body was found in his automobile, filled with carbon monoxide fumes from an idling motor.

Mrs. Burckhalter, who pleaded guilty to a first degree manslaughter charge, said she had calmly brought him an egg nog, snapped his photograph and then had gone on a routine shopping trip just before he stepped into the machine and started the motor.

A brother of her husband, Charles W. Burckhalter, had joined in a plea for leniency, declaring that Eugene Burckhalter had forced his wife to assist him in the suicide and characterizing his brother as a drunkard.

"The tragedy was not his life," said Charles, "but his mode of life."

BANDIT, WITHOUT CAR FARE, CAUGHT IN FRONT OF BANK HE LOOTED

LOS ANGELES, March 24 — He robbed a bank of $1,000 but was caught a few minutes later because he didn't have a dime for bus fare and a stern conductor made him get off the bus right in front of the bank he had just held up.

Such is the sad tale of James Allen, 35, an escaped convict who was held in the Los Angeles jail today.

Walking into a branch bank yesterday, Allen approached Manager Burton W. Winden and after cowering him with a gun, shoved a note at him which threatened Winden's wife and daughter and ordered him to fill a shopping bag with money. Winden obeyed, taking $1,000 from a teller's cage, but stepping on a foot-signal alarm while doing so.

Allen ran out of the bank with the $1,000 and boarded a bus a block down the street. He dropped a streetcar token into the coin box and was informed by the conductor that he had to pay a dime in cash. Allen didn't have a dime, and was ordered to get off at the next stop, which was in front of the bank.

A teller from the bank, talking to officers who had arrived on the scene saw Allen, and police captured him.

The loot was missing, however, and Allen declared he gave it to an accomplice.

Allen escaped from Folsom prison in 1927 and has been free since.

WEST COAST POLICE HOLD SUSPECT IN CRIME WAVE

SAN FRANCISCO, March 24 — Believing they are on the trail of a clever gang who has looted swank homes of Hollywood screen stars and other notables of more than a million dollars' jewelry and assorted loot, two San Francisco police inspectors sped Los Angeles by plane today.

Captured after a terrific struggle, Willard Burton, 40, former movie extra, admitted being one of the "phantoms of Bel Air" and also was identified through his fingerprints, as being wanted in Jacksonville, Fla. for a 1934 murder.

WORKMAN WINS GRAND NATIONAL RACE AT AINTREE

AINTREE, Eng., March 24 — With over a million dollars in American prize money riding on his heels, Sir Alexander Maguire's Workman today won the 101st running of the Grand National steeplechase.

MacMoffat was second and Kiltstar third.

Ten American ticket-holders in the Irish hospitals sweepstakes won $150,000 apiece when Workman came home the winner by three lengths.

Eight Americans won $50,000 apiece on Kiltstar, the outstanding favorite.

DEPUTY, TRUSTY HAVE FUN DISPOSING OF EVIDENCE

Court house employees had some fun Thursday over the difficulty Robert Adkins, court bailiff and deputy sheriff, had in removing some evidence used in a recent case involving the manufacture of liquor.

The evidence, ordered destroyed by Judge Meeker Terwilliger, included an old steel drum, wooden barrel, copper coil and about two gallons of mash. The wooden barrel, being carried by a jail trusty "folded up" on the stairs between the first and second floors. The other equipment was broken up and the mash went down a sewer.

W.P.A. RECREATION PLANS KITE CONTEST ON APRIL 1

A kite tournament, open to all Pickaway counties, will be held April 1 under the direction of the W. P. A. recreation department.

All kites must be homemade. Entries must be listed for the contest not later than Friday, March 30. Entries may be listed with recreation leaders. Thirty-seven entries have been listed to date. Prizes will be awarded.

A welter roast for children of the S. Washington street recreation center will be held Friday at 6:30 p. m. A program will follow the roast.

LETTERS ISSUED IN COURT IN THREE COUNTY ESTATES

Letters of administration in three estates were issued Thursday in Probate court.

ATTEMPT TO GAS WIDOW AND TWO GIRLS STUDIED

CINCINNATI, March 24 — Still mystified by the attempt to asphyxiate a widow and her two daughters in their suburban Norwood apartment, police today checked the report that the "gas murderer" tried to gain entrance to another home in the same neighborhood.

The first case was reported to police by Mrs. Ora Craig and her two daughters, Miss Josephine Snead and Miss Helen Craig. Awakened by a noise, Miss Snead told authorities she saw a white man closing a window in their apartment. Then she discovered six gas jets turned on in the kitchen.

Later Mrs. George Siegle, occupant of an adjacent apartment called the attention of police to marks on the sill of a rear window in her suite.

SOCIAL SECURITY PROVISIONS MAY BE ALTERED SOON

WASHINGTON, March 24 — President Roosevelt and his chief financial advisers joined today to support abandonment of provisions in the Social Security act for creation of a vast reserve fund which, according to some authorities, would eventually reach upwards of forty billion dollars.

The executive, at his press conference, expressed the opinion that a two-and-a-half to three billion dollar reserve fund should replace the unlimited fund provided for under the present Social Security act.

incident will result in another episode of German expansion. Bitter fighting was reported between Slovakian defenders and the Hungarian troops. The situation was complicated by the fact that only yesterday Germany and Slovakia signed a treaty whereby Germany assumed "protection" of Slovakia for 25 years.

Considerable significance was attached to the fact that the German government took great pains to deny foreign reports that Hungary had been invited by the Reich to send troops into Slovakia.

May Be Violation

The denial led to the possibility Germany may consider the Hungarian action a "violation" of the Slovakian frontiers—a finding that might lead to a grave situation. What Hitler's attitude will be could not be foretold, but it was recalled that when he addressed the Germans in Memel yesterday he stressed that:

"Germany intends to be the master of its own fate in the future, even though this may not please the rest of the world."

Today, however, with his dream of restoration of Memel to the Reich an accomplished fact, the Fuehrer was expected to give his entire attention to the Hungarian-Slovakian situation.

Hints that Hitler may take speedy, forceful action were seen in the generally expressed opinion that Germany cannot permit to pass unnoticed Hungary's forcible seizure of Slovakian territory.

BUDAPEST, Hungary, March 24 — Hungarian government officials today disclaimed any intention of this county to seize Slovakia, now under the protection of the expanding Nazi Reich.

Reports from Slovakia indicated hostilities between Hungarian and Slovak troops were in progress after the outbreak of fierce fighting yesterday.

But the Hungarian government contended the incidents resulted solely from efforts to rectify the border between Slovakia and Hungary's recently-occupied Ruthenian territory.

(Warsaw reports indicated the Hungarians had occupied the entire Sobrance area and had made still further advances. These advances, relayed from Bratislava, stated some Hungarian troops had penetrated as far as 20 miles within the Slovak border.)

According to a Budapest announcement, several points in the disputed border area were taken by Hungarian troops to straighten out the border and "insure the security of the railroad running north from Ungvar to Uzsik."

The protest filed with the Budapest government by the "autonomous" Slovakian regime charged the Hungarians had violated the Slovak borders and hence had encountered armed resistance.

In his reply, Hungarian Foreign Minister Count Stephen Csaky pledging an immediate inquiry, pointed to possibility of local incidents in view of the undefined frontier, but added:

"However, there is no question whatsoever of organized military operations against Slovakia on the part of Hungary."

Commission Assigned

It was also stated a mixed Slovak-Hungarian commission had been assigned to delineate the frontier between Slovakia and Hungary's Ruthenian areas.

BRATISLAVA, March 24 — Slovakian government authorities awaited anxiously today for Berlin's reaction to word that Hungarian troops have advanced into Slovakia.

Meanwhile, observers felt that a Hungarian reply to a Slovak note of protest did little to clear the air.
